0 MULTI-WAY COMMUNICATION

- WorkBuddy allows a flow of information and engagement between management & employees.
 - Standard intranets are commonly based on one-way communication.

+

- A business shares a post on innovation on the intranet with the hope of this being communicated via email or messenger. Employees don't typically react or read this and are soon to forget this was shared.
 - WorkBuddy allows a flow of information and engagement between management & employees.
 - A social business post is shared on the business feed. The information immediately reaches users via the social feed
 - which employees catch up on daily, during or after work via a standard business to employee post.
 - An important post can be shared as a pop-up and triggers a call to action.
- The word has spread quickly, employees start commenting and leaving positive feedback as well as praise. This in turn creates more connections and future innovation as well as an all-round, feel-good, 'Job well done' experience.

Easily share, quick to connect, engaging as well as rewarding on all ends without any real reward, just some simple serotonin release.
